The Premises:

The parlour is situated off the sea front down a street in which I did not feel safe walking down. When I found the parlour the curtains were dirty and the overall look of the place did not bode well. When I stepped inside not much was different, the reception area looked and felt dirty. The room was located upstairs via a narrow winding staircase, and the room was fairly clean and tidy.

The Lady:

The young lady had shoulder length black hair, a slight bit of excess fat around her stomach and her breasts were manageable size. Her vagina was neatly trimmed.

The Story:

Once I undressed and laid on the bed she began by massaging my back and legs. I tried a bit of small talk by asking her about the parlour and also how long she has been working there, and she said she had been there just over a week. I then turned over and she massaged my chest, legs and penis, it was at this point I noticed she did not look interested one bit. On went the condom and she began the blow job and I went to caress her breasts and there was very little reaction. So we got into position with her on top and this was when I asked if she could remove her basque, and she replied it would take too long to remove and also put back on due to the laces. The rest of the time was uneventful, she showed very little interest and I must admit even I was losing interest. Went to cum on her tits and was told it was ?30 extra. So came on my stomach, cleaned myself up and left quickly.
