The Premises:

4th floor flat within easy reach of Bayswater station - clear text instructions and all arrangements handled very professionally.

The Lady:

Small and athletic with lovely (enhanced) tits and bullet nipples - very fit and flexible (told me she was into Thai boxing).

The Story:

This was one of the more bizarre experiences of my entire life, let alone my punting life. We began fairly conventionally, with some lovely kissing and an oily tit-wank which had me shooting the first load in no time. This is quite normal for me and I always enjoy building up to a longer session the second time. Cherry gave me an expert massage, which led naturally into some oral and 69 - she then rubbered and lubed me up and impaled her arse on my cock. This was blissful and led fairly rapidly to a second explosion. She said that we should try for a 3rd pop, but I told her this was unlikely (we were now about 35 minutes in).

It was at this point that things took a surreal turn. First of all, having established that I was a musician, she persuaded me to try and tune the ukelele she had just bought - I managed to improve it considerably, but couldn't remember the exact tuning (I was so disorientated that I almost phoned my wife, who would definitely have known!). Cherry then gave me a complete pedicure, something at which she is clearly expert - as I currently have a hip problem which makes cutting my toenails uncomfortable, this was almost as blissful an experience as the sex. She took such care over this that we ran well over time - I had paid for an hour, though she also made no attempt to count the money which I had given her at the start. However, she managed to ignore the fact that watching the porn playing on a large screen while she was ministering to my feet had given me a fresh erection by the time she had finished, so maybe she is a bit more savvy than she pretends. She has been described, either in a previous FR or in a thread on the message board as "engagingly bonkers," which pretty well sums it up - I will certainly think of her every time I put my socks on for several weeks to come!
