The Premises:

In big block of flats in the heart of Notting Hill Gate. Buzzer entry. Flat OK a little spartan.

The Lady:

The same girl as in the photos plus a little airbrushing. Wore curious salmon coloured swimsuit with triangle shapes cut out of it and black frilly hip warmer. Very nice.

The Story:

If riding cowgirl was an Olympic event then the Slovakian medals tally would receive a boost this summer courtesy of Monisha. She seemed pleased when I had no special requests and so took the lead riding on me to completion. I had wanted different positions, but she was so good it seemed a shame to switch. Next up she lay back against the pillows with one knee drawn up and I took the hint that she was up for her own fun. 'I never say no to that' said she. After that, a vain attempt to revive me (advancing age), as Richard Pryor said 'if I have got to do it again, I need eight hours sleep and a bowl of wheaties'. There was no FK, but there was so many other positives, a dry wit and a sense of pride in doing a good job, it seemed a shame to complain. Does duos with her flatmate Judith from the same agency.
