The Premises:

Serviceable, well known Kensington hotel, nothing special. However I was texted instructions to use a specific route, which was apparently because visitors were being stopped. That said, managed to avoid this!

The Lady:

Emily generally looked like her photos (without the airbrushing!) but has gained a little weight since then. But she has very nice curves now so this was no bad thing. She has enhanced G-cups, which look and feel pretty natural. I was looking for the fake look though so was a little disappointed.

The Story:

Pretty friendly, interesting kissing style, great blowjob skills. Very pretty, tight pussy.

But the big problem was, her implants have apparently ruptured and are about to be replaced, so I couldn't really handle one of her breasts at all, and the other she was obviously worried about anything other than a gentle touch. This is obviously very unfortunate for her and I wish her all the best with her replacement op. That said, since this was a big part of what I was interested in/wanted to focus on this really threw a spanner in things. I would have appreciated being told about this beforehand by the agency, as I would probably have picked a different girl.

Hopefully in a couple of months she will be 100% again, but for now I can't recommend her if you're a breast man.
