The Story:

This lady is a con. Please beware.

I spoke to Bex the day before the appointment and asked her how the transfer would work. She said all I have to do is transfer the money over to her account and then send her a picture of the receipt. I called her 2 and half hours before the appointment and asked if she was still available, Bex said yes. I went to the bank, transferred ?65 to her Barclays Bank account like she asked sent her a picture of the receipt. I then waited for an address. No address was forthcoming. I called her and she said she was busy. I asked her why she told me she was available she said I thought you wasn't serious!

She said she can rearrange which I said ok to. A couple of days before the rebooked appointment I called her. She replied with the same excuse - she was busy.
