The Premises:

High end, large old house used by this establishment for the past few months. Clean, comfortable, parking outside.

The Lady:

As described on website, photos are accurate. Slim, tanned (bleached) blond. Small boobs, slightly floppy, but that's the only criticism I can make of her appearance.

The Story:

Have seen 2 or 3 other girls at this establishment, all excellent. When I called and found that my usual girl was unavailable, I decided, on a whim, to see Alexa and booked. This meant that I hadn't done any research, although checking later there are no reviews, good or bad.

When I arrived, I confirmed with the maid that Alexa offered "oral to completion". Once in the room, we discussed services, and I used the same term, and paid accordingly (extra £20 for CIM). The service was average, not up to the standard of the others I have seen here, but I would have just put that down to experience. The show-stopper was as we reached the conclusion - I asked her if she would hold my cum and show it to me. She declined, saying "have you tasted it?". This rang alarm bells, and I realised that CIM was not about to happen. I said that I had tasted mine, and referred to snowballing - she had not heard the term, and I had to explain. Needless to say, when I started to cum, she got her head well out of the way, and proceeded to wank me onto my stomach. Definitely a first class cum-dodger.

The only possible misunderstanding I can think of is the use of the term "oral to completion", although I would have thought that this was well enough understood. As the other girls in this establishment have all provided CIM, what was the extra £20 for?

I did consider phoning back later in the day, in case the maid was not aware of what Alexa was doing (or more accurately not doing), but decided against it. I don't want any repercussions when I return to visit the other girls there, and an FR may be more useful to my fellow punters. If this had been my first experience at this establishment, I would not have returned, but fortunately I have seen some of the other girls first.
