The Premises:

Jessica's place was a surprisingly spacious, discreet serviced apartment in the City - 2 minutes walk from the tube. Not much pedestrian traffic around at that time of night, but I got a cab within a minute when I left (at 1am).

It was clean and warm, and the shower worked without any issues.

The Lady:

Photos and website description are accurate (subject to the normal caveat that people rarely post bad photos of themselves), but don't quite convey how toned Jessica is - she no doubt spends substantial time in the gym.

She has a cute Welsh accent.

The Story:

After efficient and friendly communication from the Agency (which I have used occasionally before), I was warmly welcomed by Jessica and given a glass of champagne.

I asked to use her shower and then we had a chat and discussed what I enjoyed, before Jessica took me into the bedroom.

All her likes on the website were enthusiastically offered (I wasn't interested in A or receiving rimming, but related action suggested she wouldn't have held back).

Unlike some of the younger women who I see (18-21 range), the more experienced women often seem more prepared to take the lead, and have a better sense of whether I'm enjoying something - and this translates into a better GFE - the need to give directions tends to destroy the illusion.

Jessica got this spot on for me and needed only the mildest cues in order to move on / escalate / hold back.

In between rounds (2 lengthy rounds - I couldn't have managed more) we had good, relaxed conversation - no awkward pauses or lack of shared points of reference - and as soon as I was ready to go again she didn't mess around, but got straight into it.

It's unfortunate for me (for scheduling purposes) that Jessica appears to be available only during the week, but I will try to see her again.

In summary, an excellent GFE, but I expect Jessica could deliver an enthusiastic and competent PSE if requested.
