The Premises:

Block of flats with a few dodgy teens outside, the block itself is OK as there is a security guard in the lobby - albeit more interested in his TV than people coming and going.

The Lady:

mid-20s, about 5ft 6, large pear shaped - no breasts, huge ass. said she was Hungarian, spoke reasonably good English but doesn't say much

The Story:

Audrey was very friendly on the phone and greeted me nicely when I arrived. I paid my money for massage and full service, undressed and lay face down on the bed. The massage was soft and nice to start. She eventually got round to reaching under and tickling the jewels. After about 30 mins I was asked to flip. This is when the extended hand job started, which was very pleasant. She worked up and made me cum after an hour.

I thought after that things would get more serious and we would move on to the full service, but she just carried on with more hand work. It went on and on. I asked for oral, which last for about 10 seconds and went back to hand again. After 80 mins of the appointment I asked to have full sex, she got on top but was careful to not let me in very far. I asked to go on top and the same happened again, she looked away from me and made it really difficult to penetrate her.

At this point, I got up, had a shower and left. It wasn't worth having an argument with her and she clearly didn't want to offer full service (at least not to me). I paid for 2 hours, got 90 mins, so not really worth the money. I would say that if you want a massage and happy ending she's fine, but any of the services she offers are questionable based on my experience.
