The Premises:

The place was very clean and nicely laid out with many implements on display. The maid was very friendly and allowed me to choose the right room and offered me a drink before the session. This is definitely one of the best places for domination in London. You can contribute the same amount than you would for a Dom that doesn't allow any release afterwards, while the retreat does, and offers so much more.

The Lady:

This time I saw Danni. She is a late 30s/early 40s MILF (sorry if I have got this wrong). Quite simply put, Danni is a Dominatrix-goddess and plays the perfect mistress. Danni is quite short, has long dark hair, a lovely body, she is pretty, sexy, and really knows how to dominate, as well as being able to be sensual at the same time.

The Story:

Danni took time to understand what I wanted and was not fazed by anything I asked for (in fact I felt accepted). She acted out everything to perfection (she also remembered everything I asked for and added her own spin to it too).

I asked for a 2hr session in which she would be a head-girl and would dominate me with her feet and include ballbusting in the session. I asked her for loads of foot fetish stuff and give me a final kick that would floor me for a short time, and she certainly delivered. Without going into too many specifics, I walked out of there smiling from ear-to-ear and am still sore after taking kicks from her perfect size 5s days later. Danni ran the session with great enthusiasm, spoke dominantly and dirty in her sexy Midlands accent and has the dirtiest and most humiliating laugh I have heard.

One of the problems I have had in the past is finding someone who looked like they enjoyed my fetish, but Danni really gets into it, and seems to enjoy the session. I'm yet to try some of the other girls from the retreat, but I know I will see Danni again when funds allow.

Even though this has nothing to do with my session, I also visited a massage place only in the next street to soothe my aching body after my session and rather naively thought that they just offered massages, after my massage, the girl stroked in between my thighs asked if I wanted my cock massaged and (with permission) gave me my 2nd happy ending of the day for a small donation. This was possibly the best day I've had in ages, and this area of London has become my favourite place in the city.
