Christine was wearing a lovely dress that showed off her figure and was very suitable for the night out we had planned.

The Story:

I was looking for someone to be my companion on a night out to a concert. A friend pulled out so instead of going solo or selling the ticket I decided to have some company.

We kissed, had a quick chat and then got comfortable. As we were going out we had a little time to get to know each other first and talk about what I was looking for. I get nervous doing this bit but Christine was completely tuned in and understood exactly what I wanted. Christine's eyes draw you in so found myself staring at them a great deal. Smile reaches her eyes which makes it look warm and genuine. We left for the music venue and Christine was exactly like the beautiful, loving girlfriend anyone would want on their arm. At the event we talked, drank, flirted and enjoyed the show.

Once back we started to play around on the couch but paused to order some room service. Being late the only options were smaller snacks and sandwiches. That meant we resumed our playing around but didn't go as far as we could have due to room service arriving so quickly. We finished our food quickly and Christine went off to get dressed into something she had brought with her. Out she came wearing an incredibly tight and sexy set of lingerie. We were talking about sexy tunes earlier and she had asked me to put one on so she could perform a lapdance for me. This was spot on and no way did I believe she had not done one before, not complaining, just saying it was GOOD. We moved straight from that into passionate kissing, undressing and Christine going down on me. However great that was I had built up the need to have Christine fully so she climbed on top and we started our sexcapades. This started in the living room on the couch in multiple positions and then moved to the bedroom in which those positions were repeated along with a few more. This session ended with Christine's legs over my shoulders kissing me deeply while I came very hard. Christine then wrapped her legs around me for extra effect and we stayed locked together for a few minutes, while my heart rate went back to normal human levels all the while still kissing and holding on to me.

After that we got cleaned up, chatted some more and then went to bed, it was gone 2:30am by then. In the morning we had breakfast in the living room and then another session on the couch. This was a lot shorter but more intense than I had the night before. Morning sex is the only way to start the day.

There is no clock watching and if you make Christine feel comfortable, are honest about what you want then you will have an amazing time. Overnights can be very difficult as two strangers trying to get along for so long is not always easy. Well this was and I am now wishing my friend cancels the next concert so I can do this again. I believe Christine was very sincere when she said she had a great time and I'm normally quite good at reading that. Had a fantastic time Christine, thank you and see you soon.
