The Story:

Well, I thought it was all my fault, but having read report 27435 by Loudmouth I felt the need to submit a report. Like him I thought she had stopped working and pulled her reports but learning that she still advertises its important that punternet knows what kind of "service" she offers.

Yes, she didn't reply to emails in the days up to my booking but sent me a text in the afternoon. Yes, she was 45 minutes late saying she couldn't get a taxi (she told me later she lived ten minutes from the hotel)

Conversation with girls is not something I usually find difficult and I always treat escorts with respect but it was fairly hard work talking to her when she was answering text messages. She took the overnight fee and we went out to dinner. After a bottle of wine we seemed to get on and got back to the hotel where she ordered more drink. After a while she suggested I undress while she went into the bathroom emerging in bra and pants. She gave me the quickest and lightest back "massage" I've ever had and then attempted OWO. She allowed me to play a little with her admittedly nice breasts but did not allow me to fondle her elsewhere "That doesn't do anything for me". An attempt at reverse oral was met with a sarcastic "I don't think so". Why doesn't her website say what her limits are? She didn't want any closeness at all and after the second episode of eye-rolling at my attempts to break the ice I lost the will to bother anymore. She then asked me what my problem was! She dressed and left with her fee.

It's fine not to want sex with strangers but it's a bit of a handicap in her chosen line of work. Avoid at all costs. A frustrating and wasted evening. I felt ripped off.
