The Story:

As a more mature gent I was growing tired of the inexperienced escorts I've seen in the past, you can tell they are just there for the quick money and will not last long. I decided to try seeing someone a bit closer to my age so I had a look around and found Adorable Anna there was something more sophisticated about her so I booked a dinner date.

This delightful lady arrived at my apartment for our date and I thought she must have the wrong room, but no she was here to see me and the naughty glint in her eyes hinted at the fun to follow. We went for a walk along the quayside chatting to a restaurant where the meal was booked and had a lovely dinner, Anna refusing wine as she was driving, then another stroll back to my apartment where the romance of the evening continued. I won't go into to gory details but some years back after an operation things were never quite the same, in the past this has been viewed with some amusement by other ladies but Anna is not like this at all when I explained she discussed the situation how I make things work for me and patiently we worked it all out and both ended up enjoying a fabulous evening.

After everything was over I realized that we had gone overtime, but Anna said she wanted to make it special so didn't mind

I hope I get the chance to repeat an evening like this again soon? xx
