The Story:

When I arrived I had to wait a few minutes for the previous customer to leave, so I feel she could time the bookings better with a bit more buffer time in between. Was offered a shower first which I took her up on. She originally quoted me ?80 but I elected to pay an extra ?20 for a prostate massage. She started with quite a firm back and shoulders massage, which was fairly well executed along with some polite chatter. She then progressed to the usual more erotic experience. I found her touch to be pretty much to my liking, touching on all the right places. The prostate massage was surprisingly good; often its too rough, but this was just firm enough to be effective without being painful and in just the right place. After some nice gentle attention followed by a few firm strokes an enjoyable happy ending.

Overall although its not cheap, the place was well appointed and easy to get to, the massage was good and ultimately satisfying, so overall worth it.
