The Premises:

Gita's Massage is just past the shopping area on Clapham High Street and is tucked away on a quiet side road. The house is next to a more visible therapeutic massage place which is unrelated.

The Lady:

Beautiful half Thai, half Chinese young girl in her twenties. She had lovely soft skin, a wicked smile and beautiful pert breasts with prominent nipples. She wore a gorgeous flowery dress and had a flower in her hair too.

The Story:

I've used a lot of massage parlours and visiting escorts but it's rare to get a place where the ladies consistently give you loving attention and proper massages. I showered and then we began the massage. She remained in her dress but used her whole body to give me an incredible and professional massage experience. It was wonderful to have all the stress just flow out of my body as she kneaded my back, arms and legs.

She turned me over and gave me a wonderful covered blowjob. Halfway through she took the condom off and continued to suck me and gently lick around the head. I asked her to mount me and a new condom went. Once I was in her she bucked her hips giving me a fantastic experience. I came and afterward she remained on top and held me to allow me to experience her pussy contracting around my manhood.

After that she wrapped a towel round her for another round of professional massaging, this time with me on my front. She even did my feet and hands (so soothing). She pulled me into a sitting position to finish off by massaging my neck and head.

I left feeling in an incredible state of bliss! Highly recommended - don't be put off by Gita's rude sounding voice on the phone. This is a thousand times better than other massage places, oriental or not, in the area.
