The Premises:

Tatty and quite small

The Lady:

Answered door, I initially thought it was the front of house, not one of the girls. Dressed in long tunic style top and 3/4 length trousers. Not at all revealing or sexy. When I found out it was Shakira was surprised as she was older than 20's.

The Story:

Had booked the stunning Narrinder for a 30 minute 4.15 appointment the previous night. Had been looking forward to it all day as my previous visit to Narrinder is in my all time top 3 punts. Rang to confirm at 4 to be told hesitantly that Narrinder was running a bit late. Got to the flat a few minutes later and was greeted by Shakira. Only to now be told that Narrinder had an hour long appointment with someone else that had started at 4.

A synical person might say that I was being played. If they had told me the mistake on the phone, I probably wouldn't have gone to the flat. Now I'm there, horny and with no back up plan. What to do?

Shakira said she was free. As stated above it was hard to see what sort of figure shakira had because of the way she was dressed. Jada was also free but have seen her a couple of times so reluctantly decided on 20 min appointment with Shakira.

What a mistake. As soon as she removed the covering attire she looked nothing like her pictures (if they were even her) smaller breasts, quite a stomach, bigger bum and very untidy down below. The worst girl I've seen by a long way of my many visits to Indian-Palace.

80% of the time have found the pictures at this establishment accurate, unfotunately not this time. Can only think some previous reviewers were very forgiving in their comparisson to the pictures.

Struggled to get turned on. The mock sexy talk with her northern accent certainly didn't help. In the end finished the job myself and got out regretting not having more self control and just walking away, but I bet there's plenty who have done the same when ther brain is being controlled from elsewhere. This rates as one of the worst ever punts. She wasn't like her pictures, was disinterested, nothing like the normal excellent Indian palce.

They may reply with some spin on the above description but this is exactly, exactly what happened.

Service Provider's Rebuttal

The establishment writes:

Hello Firefox, we would like to address all your points in this report:

After reading your report, we checked with the receptionist who was on that day to find out what had happened. With appointments that are booked for the next day, the receptionists are supposed to ask the person making the booking to call up on the morning of their booking, the following day to confirm. The receptionists have said they always let everyone know that. You have said you called up at 4pm on the day to confirm your booking of 4.15pm.

But, what the receptionist said actually happened that day is that someone with a very similar name to yourself (the name with three letters that you used to book) turned up at the flat and gave his name and said he had a booking with Narinder. His name was also three letters long and the 1st letter of his name was the only different letter compared to your name. He was asked if he was early for his appointment and he said yes. Narinder thought he was you and took the appointment as the name was very similar. When you called up at 4pm, Narinder was running a bit over from her previous appointment, which is why the receptionist let you know that. By the time you came to the flat, Narinder had already started with the person that had turned up that she thought was you because the name was very similar.

We are very sorry for this mix up and the receptionist remembered you clearly due to the mix up that happened that day.

The rooms in our place are definitely not 'Tatty' as you have described.

We have modern furniture as well as shelf designs on the wall with Ikea glass and flower decoration. We also have modern rugs and floor lighting. And we always do our best to make sure our bed covers are nice and not worn looking with the latest designs from good stores. We change our bedsets and towels to make sure they do not look worn. We do not agree with your comment at all about our place being 'tatty'. Each of the rooms are also the size of a double bedroom.

The ladies also answer the door themselves and they all wear a non revealing tunic with trousers when they do that. This is for discretion reasons. Underneath, all the ladies do wear nice underwear.

We do not agree with your comments about Shakira's pictures. Shakira's pictures are 100% genuine. They are of her. They were taken at our place, by our photographer, so we know they are of her. And if you compare Shakira to her pictures, it's plain to see they are the same lady. Shakira is a slim lady with a slim frame. Beauty is definitely in the eye of the beholder, Narinder and Shakira are definitely two very different people. And if you found Shakira's northern accent annoying, then there is nothing she can do about that. In regards to Shakira's service, we are going to keep an eye on her. Usually our regular customers will call us and let us know if a lady has given them an unsatisfactory service and no one has complained about Shakira yet.

But if she really is 'disinterested' during her service like you say, then we will find out asap.

We have also noted that this is your first report on PunterNet and it's a bad one on our place even though you have mentioned that you really enjoyed your service with Narinder and you have seen Jada twice now. It would be nice to see some good reports on our place from you and not just a bad one!

We do apologise once again for the mix up with the appointment, is it possible for you to send us an email, confirming the three letter name that you used to book and we can sort something out for you?

We hope to hear back from you!
