The Premises:

A rather run-down suburb sandwiched between Ealing and Southall; a first-floor flat off a busy road, with residential parking in side-streets. The flat: small, functional, spotless, comfortable. Since I live out in the sticks, I tend not to feel at home in these nondescript areas of London - but I did not feel unsafe.

The Lady:

Catherina is gorgeous to look at, and has a warm, friendly personality.

The few photos of her don't really do her justice, and when she disrobes, her body will take your breath away. Everything in proportion, smooth skin, and curves everywhere that you want curves, and not a surplus ounce anywhere.

The Story:

Catherina made me feel welcome right away, and delivered not only a very professional and competent massage, but also a delightfully sensual body-to-body experience. The build-up was just the way I like it, with little sensual touches to start with, gradually working up to an expertly administered climax, and throughout, Catherina seemed concerned that I was enjoying what she was doing. I usually get an attack of the wandering hands while being pleased by a lady, especially one as beautiful as Catherina, and she seemed comfortable with this. Afterwards, she brought me down to earth in a very sweet and caring way; after a shower and a quick chat, I left with a smile on my face and a spring in my step.
