The Story:

I have had my eye on Inna for some years and was first attracted by the sense of humour present in her, now lost, video and also via her various Message Board appearances. However as with a lot of things, I kept putting meeting her off despite friends telling me to go and see her.

In the end, after chatting a bit on Twitter and seeing that she had come back to being a Working Girl after some other plans had come to nothing, I thought that it was totally stupid not to try and see her so I called her and made an appointment.

The booking process was totally straightforward and simple and achieved without giving blood samples, my passport or my first-born (Other ladies please note!) and on the given day she texted me the address and I duly arrived.

At first sight Inna is simply stunning and you do need to pinch yourself as you could be dreaming.

After sorting the paperwork out she gave me a glass of something and then invited me to use the shower as it was a hot day. Then after a chat we went into the bedroom where we had what a can only describe as a complete GFE x 1000. The lady is a great kisser and is both tactile and responsive and her various erogenous zones (Who knew there were soooo many?) are all apparently interconnected and have a USB6 Bus connecting them.

Not only does the lady kiss like she means it, the sex is both energetic and passionate interspersed with cuddles and massages/strokes.

Her level of fitness is excellent and she is extremely flexible which meant that the sex was not in any way difficult or stop start, she sort of flowed all around me. That coupled with an extremely kulturny Russian accent meant the level of arousal was constantly high on my part, which at my age is a minor miracle in itself.

Two hours flew past and although this lady is no clock watcher, when I realised how much time had actually gone past I made an AVC (Additional Voluntary Contribution) which she reluctantly received.

On leaving, I booked a further appointment with Inna whilst walking back to South Kensington tube station.
