The Premises:

A mews flat about 5 minutes' walk from Paddington Station. The room is small, somewhat airless and can get very hot. Loud Romanian rap music was playing continuously on a stereo. There is a usable bathroom next door.

The Lady:

Raisa is very good-looking, with a marvellous body and slightly cat-like features. She is of medium size, perhaps not naturally blonde, but definitely a sexy-looking chick. She seems to need loud music to get her going, sings along with it sometimes, and showed off a few dance steps.

The Story:

Well, what can go wrong with a stunning young lady in her early twenties? Unfortunately, the experience was far from satisfactory. She avoided eye-contact, disappeared for a while after receiving her wages, and then returned to start texting on a mobile phone. 'Just a minute, baby?', she said without looking up from the screen. She did a very poor impression of a massage for a few moments before returning to her blessed phone. I asked her to put it away for the rest of the session but got the same 'Just a moment, baby?' in her semi-detached, sing-song voice. Later she has a fit of the giggles which I should perhaps have taken as a compliment, but at no time did I feel that we were connecting. She does kiss quite nicely, though. But seems dreamy and only half there. Afterwards she helped me into the shower, which was nice of her, but there was no towel so she had to fish one out of the laundry basket: it was rather moist and had possibly been used more than once during the day. This level of service might be acceptable in a walk-up, but coming from an agency escort it was not up to the expected standard.
