The Story:

I have got High Functioning Autism and after some disastrous punts I decided to dip my toe in again. And to be honest I'm glad I did.

Sophie, was warm, affectionate and chatty. Nothing was too much trouble for her (especially with my mental health condition) and tried to accomodate me as much as she could. I don't want to go into details but she really did make me feel good and I left her flat bouncing with confidence. I only wish I could have seen her for longer (and ask her to dress in a certain costume).

The only question to ask yourself if you are considering her is can you afford it.
