The Premises:

HOH South Kensington is a well-known venue, located in an upmarket building in a very safe area. We had the front, ensuite, bedroom.

The Lady:

At first sight, Sadie is pretty, very slender and with size D enhanced boobs. Her website quotes a size 10 but she looks more like an 8 to me. The first impression that Sadie is slightly built belies the fact that her abdominal muscles are very well defined, her legs are deceptively strong and she has the pelvic control of an athlete. It is obvious that Sadie works out frequently and she confirmed that in our conversations.

Her heels took her from 5ft 6ins towards the 6ft range and she looks very much like her portfolio. I would put her age at around 29, probably not less.

She had paid particular attention to her hair, incorporating a floral display to add to her exotic look.

The Story:

I was asked if I wanted to shower and I always take that as a preference expressed by the lady, so I shortly re-emerged clad only in a towel. It was at this point that I asked Sadie if she was happy to indulge in some role-play. Sadie said "Yes – what would you like to do and do I need to change?" I informed her that she was dressed perfectly and that all would become obvious very soon.

I continued: "Miss Page, my name is Irving Klaw. Please forgive my unconventional attire, for I am an unconventional person." We then, completely without reference to any true facts, recreated the first meeting between Bettie Page and Irving Klaw, which morphed into a job interview, where Bettie was blindfolded and Irving outlined what Bettie's future might hold. He provided verbal examples of some of the poses in which she might find herself and trained Bettie to become completely relaxed in the hands of her new mentor. Sadie threw herself into her new identity with evident enthusiasm and showed every indication of thoroughly enjoying what turned into a blindfolded standing tease, before being lifted onto the bed for more intimate moments, with my tongue being put to good use.

After passing a peak of intensity some slowing down was clearly in order, so I asked Sadie if she wanted the blindfold removed. She said "no" because she was enjoying the extra effect of the caresses which being blindfolded afforded.

Then came the moment when Sadie removed the blindfold and asked what I wanted her to do with me. With a lady of Sadie's experience I thought it a good idea to give her a free rein, so she said that she wanted to explore my body, which is what she did. So, Sadie managed, with lips, hands, personality and the whole "look" of her from face downwards to keep me pole hard for much of an hour while she rode me in three positions, interjected by an expert prostate massage, such that when I could eventually hold out no longer both of us could feel me pumping away inside her. That is when I really appreciated Sadie's aforementioned pelvic control.

During this period Sadie was quite prepared to show which positions she most enjoyed with me for her own pleasure and this approach is something that really works for me.

After a quick bathroom break Sadie asked me if I would care for a massage. I said that although I would that my preference would be to massage her, since I just love the intimacy of massaging a lovely girl. Sadie let me know her favourite zones and I worked on those to the best of my ability before she asked if we could replay one of our earlier ventures. I was only too happy to agree and Sadie certainly seemed to enjoy herself at least as much as the first time.

Our two hours were soon up and it was now that the benefit of the extra 15 minutes showed. Not only was there time for me to shower but Sadie was able to join me for a relatively leisurely conclusion to our first encounter. She also had time to indulge in some of the chocolates which I had taken (she likes dark chocolate) to renew her energy for the rest of her day.

So, having experienced Sadie and Bettie, I had enjoyed the company of two legends for the price of one.
