The Premises:

A newish apartment in a reasonably safe area. Parking on street only and a little limited due to double yellow lines. The flat itself was clean and tidy.

The Lady:

Her photographs did not include her face so difficult tell if it was the same girl. She also claimed to have recently had a boob job - she was not fat but was certainly larger than the freely available photos would suggest.

The Story:

I really wonder sometimes why I persist with using Adultwork. There are some good, genuine ladies on the site who offer a decent service. Sadly, Kellie is not one of them.

I should have perhaps been concerned that within a couple of minutes of the time of our meeting she sent me a text saying that she was running late. It happens, I know, but subsequent events suggested that she was less than genuine.

Her profile on the day stated that she had a special offer available. We discussed this and agreed a service, duration (two hours) and fee. Kellie was welcoming on my arrival and after sorting out the financials she stripped to her bra and thong. She chatted about all sorts of stuff but after a few minutes her attention was diverted to the matter in hand as I started to rub her pussy through her thong. She seemed to like this and made some suitably appreciative noises. She refused to remove her bra, citing soreness from her boob job so instead I removed her thong and went down on her. It was at this point that things started to go downhill. Whilst I was licking her, Kellie's mobile rang. She said it was her sister and went into another room to talk. A few minutes later she came back into the room claiming that her sister had locked herself out of her flat and she had to go and take her a spare key. She would, she said, be 10 minutes but I had to go and wait in my car. After about 15 minutes she sent me a text saying that it would be longer and that she would re-arrange the meeting for the following Monday. Her ex-partner was going to be in the flat over the weekend so I mustn't try to contact her.

The following Monday came and my text to Kellie received a reply stating that her sister was now living with her and using the number on her work phone, so I must not try to contact her but she would get back to me when she was free.

The next day, Kellie's Adultwork profile was showing the 'available today' flag and displaying the same mobile number, so I sent her a text. At first she feigned ignorance of who I was, then said that she was busy until 11pm, clearly a device aimed at putting me off. When I agreed to see her at 11:00pm, she then claimed that I would have to pay her again, as the money I had given her was counterfeit. I told her that I didn't believe her at which point she became indignant with me and it became clear that I was flogging a dead horse.

I suppose it is possible that Kellie could have been telling the truth. But I don't believe it for a moment. I can only suggest that you avoid this scam like the page.
