The Story:

Hollie arrived a few minutes early. She was nervous and explained that she was new to the industry and that I was one of her first clients. Not wanting to make her any more uncomfortable, I suggested that she took the lead. Most of our time together was like any other couple on their first date with lots of kissing, cuddling, teasing and gentle probing of boundaries. And she was such a beautiful kisser that I'm sure a lot of blokes would have been content if this was all they got for their money.

Then out of the blue, she expressed concern that I wasn't enjoying myself and went up a gear becoming much more proactive. I don't know what instigated this but it had the effect of transforming what was up to then a very pleasant experience into a highly memorable one. For the last few minutes I unexpectedly enjoyed a girlfriend experience of the highest order though sadly it was a rush against the clock. Half an hour after she'd left, I was ready for more which is always a sign of an excellent session.

This is the stuff that fantasies are made of. With this level of customer focus, together with her stunning looks, I can predict that she will be extremely popular.
