The Premises:

We met in a room at a Kensington Hotel. Very pleasant. The Bathroom was a little small, but I am sure we have all travelled enough to know that en suite bathroom sizes vary depending on the exact layout of the hotel and I think Camilla was just a little unlucky in the room the hotel gave her this time.

The Lady:

Camilla met me by the door dressed in a paper thin black dressing gown and blue lingerie. She is clearly in her early twenties and her skin had the most delicious smell. She also has wonderful hair. This does not really come across in the photographs of her on the Hamilton's website. It is slightly lighter colour than the website suggests and has just enough length and volume to have a real silky quality when it brushes against your cheek.

The Story:

If you are looking for a blond, surgically enhanced Barbie doll who offers the full PSE then Camilla will disappoint you. If instead you've ever walked down Kensington High Street, spotted one of the many erudite young women who congregate there and wondered what it would be like to take her to a hotel, strip her naked and spend an hour with her under escort terms, then I would recommend Camilla wholeheartedly.

She welcomed me at the door and offered me a shower. No sooner was I out and sat next to her on the bed than she was stroking my bare leg with her long fingers. I teased her about showing me some ballet moves (as her profile says she trained to be a professional ballerina), but she wasn't keen, coyly claiming she was out of practice. I persisted and she proceeded to raise her leg effortlessly to an angle that, whilst perhaps falling short of professional ballet standard, would do anyone else proud.

Two points to note. First she only offers closed lip kissing (no great issue for me) and second she does not offer OWO. I was slightly surprised by this as most girls do. I did not press the point as I believe a decision like that is the lady's to make and there was no problem with either her enthusiasm or her technique.

I noticed one of my previous reviews was criticised (on one of the punternet forum threads) for not going into sufficient detail, and despite my best efforts I am sure this one has disappointed once again. What matters in a review like this is whether I would recommend the girl to someone else, not a list of services rendered. I stated above, if you are looking for a genuine girl who perhaps will remind you of the sort of girl you used to go to University with (but were out of your league) then Camilla will be ideal. If on the other hand you have a gargantuan encyclopaedia of sex acts stored at the back of your brain and consider failure to comply with any one of them within a set time limit as some sort of failure of escort professionalism, then I think you will find her falling badly short of your requirements.
