The Premises:

Just off main shopping street of an off-city centre district, across the road from a Wetherspoons so very handy for a coffee to collect yourself from the most wonderful & intense experience before going home.

Safe, clean, respectable neighbourhood and premises. Very discrete (walk straight in off the street but ring bell in foyer before being 'buzzed in' to the upstairs facility. (No wheelchair access I'm aware of.)

Car parking provided free for shoppers is about 3 mins walk away or you can get the bus to almost right outside.

Showering wasn't offered but I didn't find it difficult to arrive clean and hot wet towels provided let me leave clean too!

Treatment room excellent - mood, decor, smell, furnishing & equipment all as you could want.

The Lady:

Jessica is a white British woman - very 'fit' in every sense of the word, just old enough to have the experience you want and no suggestion she is anything other than a joyful participant in this industry.

There was no photo of her on the website and I didn't ask for any physical description before making the booking because I was going for a blindfolded experience so looks weren't going to be crucial and I'd rather not trouble you with a detailed description of Jessica's physical appearance or underwear size. Not because she isn't stunning to look at - she certainly is - but because you only need to know she is utterly fabulous to look at, to talk with and to be touched by. She would surely have no difficulty attracting the attention of any man she chooses and must have hordes wishing they could be her 'significant other'. As of my meeting with her that is now 'hordes plus one'.

The Story:

Within the constraints of the services advertised Jessica gave herself to me physically and emotionally with a level of skill and generosity that could not have been bettered.

It's not, in my view, appropriate to give a dot by dot description of the experience because that would be like telling someone who won the Bake Off when they were planning to watch it on catch-up tonight.

The point of 'sweet surrender' is to surrender - to let the girl take charge, to not know what happens next and let yourself go with the flow....

Anyone who has thought about asking for the 'sweet surrender' experience but not tried it is really missing a treat. There's no point me going into detail about what makes it a good experience as enough is written elsewhere about the appeal of massage in bondage and anyway much will depend on the individual, but if you're not thinking about it why are you reading this and if you are thinking about it stop dithering - get on the phone and book a session with Jessica, I'm very glad I did.

In fact my only regret is that I chose to arrange the 60 instead of 90 minute session but I'll definitely rectify that next time!!

Oh and Jessica, if you've not chosen 'Mr Right' yet, settle for nothing less than the best - he will be exceptionally lucky.
