The Premises:

This was a travel location. A long weekend in a 4 star spa hotel in a popular cosmopolitan beach resort on the Eastern Mediterranean. Out Friday morning and back Monday evening.

The Lady:

Exactly as her website. Stunning, tall and a body to die for.

The Story:

I had met Valery several times for short liaisons since my first review just over 6 months ago. I travel a lot and every now and then have the opportunity to treat myself with a companion. I have two other regular travelling companions (one from Italy and one from Lithuania so you won't find them on Punternet) but one of them has recently left the business. This left a "vacancy" and I approached Valery a couple of months ago to see if this would be of interest and it was - so the stage was set. This particular trip was 3 nights plus travel there and back. It involved an early 6am start at one of the London airports and she was right on time! There then followed a flight of several hours duration and plenty of keen anticipation. I can say that this was the longest duration and also the most expensive punt I have ever done - some of that was down to paying UK rates rather than Lithuanian/Italian rates.

I won't give my usual detail for this review but suffice to say that I would not have invited Valery if her performance lacked quality. I can say, in particular, that her oral skills are second to none. In addition it has been many years since I have enjoyed such a pleasant morning wake up call. In particular, two of the mornings were of a quality that I shall remember for the rest of my life.

Valery takes her health and fitness seriously and you can expect her to offer advice on your exercise routine (or lack of it) and diet. Our hotel had a gym and spa and I would consider that a necessity if you travel with her. On one of our days we walked for probably 6 or 7 miles along the seafront so it helps if you have the stamina for that. In addition she is meticulous about healthy eating and drinking having recently become teetotal. That wasn't an issue for me but if you are a fried food and 6 pints of beer person then she is not for you. If you just enjoy a beer or a glass of wine with your meal then you will be OK.

Finally, Valery is going to be changing her mode of operation soon. She intends to vacate her London apartment and move to the suburbs in a couple of months from now. She will focus more on outcall and travel until her business activities (personal trainer) take off and then it's quite likely she will stop this "alternative business" altogether.

So, in summary - a splendid travelling companion. Alas I don't have unlimited funds so I now have to save my pennies for a repeat
