The Premises:

GFE is a well-known establishment, reported on many times before. My major gripe with this place is the inconsistency of the shower temperatures. Once again, it was very difficult to obtain a comfortable temperature to sustain. The only way to actually get the shower to reach a temperature, which is both tolerable and accessible, was after a significant time of running.

However, the biggest asset of GFE is the wonderful receptionist, Kathie. A real genuine, affable lady, who brightens up the place no end. An amazingly approachable welcome to proceedings and a breath of life after the encounter. A hostess of the highest order and she is worth her weight in gold.

The Lady:

Abby is a pleasant girl, who claims to be 24-years old, from the Midlands and in her words "more mature" than her age. I would say that that her advertised cup-size is somewhat exaggerated, but still, she sports a an acceptable frame. She proved professional throughout and her attitude at the fundamental level was amenable enough.

The Story:

The neutral assignation to this report, is not because of any specific negative experiences I incurred, although there were moments of awkwardness that I cannot avoid but draw due attention to. I am of the belief that Abby has an abundance of potentiality and positioned in the correct environment, she would thrive. I also judge that Abby has an affable disposition and is not unduly disadvantaged by operating in this profession. I would dare to venture though, that she may excel at the more "dominatrix" aspect of the vocation, although I have no evidential data to base this diagnosis!

As it were though, the encounter proceeded in the usual fashion, with gentle kissing, oral both ways and sex in a couple of positions. Vanilla is my tipping and although I posed the question about any "extras", with no specification, this was denied. Some digging though may have prompted some success in this regard, although this is not my gig and it was curiosity more than anything that drove the enquiry.

Allow me to attempt to clarify to why there were slightly awkward engagement moments. First, I chose Abby from a completely random approach. I'm becoming somewhat jaded in my punting days and due to my extensive travel demands, I need to seek relaxation and relief in such manners. I do not possess high expectations from my encounters now, but do demand a basic customer-service, especially so with the exchange of financial incentives.

Once in the room, no contact was encouraged until the funds were transferred. Despite being a regular to this establishment and have spent some time with Kathie, who must have debriefed the girl, this request was a bit irksome. However, I demurred and provided, after which, Abby left and took 8 minutes to return.

Abby proclaimed to be 24 and although I do not wish to out rightly state that this seemed unlikely, it may well be possible. When I expressed surprise, she told me that she was more mature for her age. I do not think I concur with this acclaim. This was demonstrated by her somewhat naive utterances about geographical references and the socioeconomic design on my profession. "Worldliness" is not an attribute I would assign to Abby. I dare to punt the notion of non-conformist to her personality. She claimed to be old-fashioned in her music tastes, but that is not a justification for her "maturity". Maybe, this rebellious feature is a determining element to why she is in this trade. Her matter-of-fact speech, which some may discern as brusque, concise and non-negotiable, is a reason to why I thought about the dominatrix proposition above. She mentioned that she wishes to enter into the medical profession and I entirely see how her matronly conduct, style, speech, would be suitable for that type of position.

Infuriatingly, this was more prevalent at certain times than others. Whilst indulging in reverse-oral, although there were apparent audible signatures of pleasure, there was no real authentic consequences. Bizarrely enough too, twice during the actual intercourse – importantly, the second and last was during the post-climatic glow – she begun humming to the music on the radio and announced "I like this song"! This is a rather perturbing affirmation to make during a time, when I would hope her attention is focussed elsewhere. This also occurred immediately after the oral bout and sex was being initiated. I considered briefly then to abort, since I was losing vigour and zest for further conduct. However, I did not want to make the whole thing a complete disaster, so proceeded accordingly. The musical insights were the biggest indication of a "professional" approach to the role rather than a full interaction.

To finish, it needs to be said that Abby is a perfectly acceptable lady. I did not feel unduly duped and enjoyed the proceedings very much so. I would not re-visit Abby, due to the reservations I have outlined above. I think especially so, if Abby were to provide more of a "PSE" service, rather than a "GFE", then, she would be more of an appealing option.
