The Story:

Had lots of communication in week beforehand to agree visit.

Mid afternoon she sent a text asking for 50% of fee paid up front by paypal into her account 'to cover transport costs'. I said no. She said could her partner come to the hotel early to collect cash then he could sort out the costs. I stupidly agreed.

He turned up, took the money then said he would go to then bar and get some drinks for when she arrived.

He took all the money and never returned and after numerous texts she replied taking the piss. she said didn't matter that she hadn't turned up as her partner had and she quoted note at the bottom of aw page.

She deleted her aw profile and set up a new one, gemma3790 but previous gemmajay89 returned.

I have reported to the police and they have given me incident number and said is a civil action case.

I will do all I can to proceed with this as I hate being made a fool of, which I was.

AVOID like the plague!
