The Premises:

The house is a small terraced one in a somewhat scruffy back street. It feels safe enough in daylight. There are no parking restrictions in the street. The house is a work place, Jess does not live there she told me. I was not offered any bathroom facilities. The bedroom is sparsely furnished with a four poster bed, which has large metal grills top and bottom but no drapes or hangings. I only saw the hall and the bedroom. It all looked very spartan.

The Lady:

Jess advertises herself as 31 and from her looks that is about right. She is very good looking, petite with long black hair, a good figure, everything in proportion. She was wearing knee boots which she never took off through the entire session.

She is one of the best looking escorts I have ever seen, but unfortunately in her case beauty really is skin deep as she is totally devoid of any personality. Her attitude is one of bored indifference from start to finish.

The Story:

I picked Jess out on the purple site because she had a lot of good feedback from various guys. I should have looked harder though, she seems to get no repeat visits, no regulars, and reading the reverse feedback she gives it is almost invariably the same five words, "Lovely guy welcome back anytime". It seems she can't even be bothered to think up any variety on this.

I went to Jess with every intention of having full sex, as I do with most escorts, but after only a few minutes I realised that there was no connection between us at all, any attempt at conversation was met with very little response, usually just one or two words. A less experienced punter might have blamed himself, but I have had good relationships with enough escorts to know that I am generally welcomed as a sociable and friendly client.

I settled for a blow job and even then I felt so unexcited by her that she ended by giving me a hand relief, after which she had no wipes or tissues for me to clean up with and she went to the bathroom and came back with a long strip of toilet roll which she handed to me. She only removed any of her own clothing reluctantly and after being asked. I was finished and gone in 20 minutes and frankly I felt that I would have had more fun with a blow up doll. One to avoid. The better escorts realise that sex is only part of the enjoyment of punting, there should also be a social side and some chat. This girl seems to have never learned that lesson.
