The Story:

If there was the choice my recommendation would be : HELL NO !!!!

Nothing was ready, at it was the family home I've been told I should act if I was her boyfriend if anyone would have come during the session... anyway, things started to feel odd as I was under the strong impression she was stalling the intercourse (insistance for a massage and i had way better by the way...) well when things got further I had the surprise to have my fingers covered in blood... she told me then got her period ! Why for f* sake did she take the booking in that case ? I stopped things right there and she accepted to give some of the money back after arguing we could do oral only which I refused. So I was out 40mn later having wasted 400£ (she gave me 300 back) not a good feeling at all... I was and still am utterly disappointed by such behavior.

I did exchange with the agency to explain what happened, I can only praised them for their understanding and professionalism in the way they handled everything afterwards !
