The Premises:

As previously described.

The Lady:

Extremely attractive, Brit, 40 something, long blonde hair, above average height, medium build, medium sized breasts, fully shaved. I'm sure that the photos on HoD's site are of her.

Unmistakably posh both in appearance and in the way she spoke. The sort that would be born to a well off family, privately educated, marrying well and then spending her life as a lady who lunches in places like Hampstead and Knightsbridge when in town and on horseback following the hounds when staying at her country home.

Comes across as someone who is in the industry because likes the work rather than for the money.

The Story:

In short an excellent encounter - one of the best I've ever had at HoD though the fact that I found her extremely attractive clearly added to the intensity of the session. Regular readers of my reviews will realise that this quite an accolade.

Sophie went straight to the top of my must see list when I first saw the photos on her profile as physically she's just my type. My punting instincts were screaming at me that I won't regret booking her but it took a little while to synchronise availabilities - she only works one day a week while I work long hours and can only punt when I can sneak away from my desk for at least a couple of hours.

The chemistry between us felt right from the moment we met and her gfe exemplary with plenty of enthusiastic dfk and owo. I realised in the first couple of minutes that my original 30 minute booking would not be enough and was lucky to be able to extend to 45. This was a good decision but still not long enough to fully enjoy her talents. Her owo, slow and tender and covering the parts that many other HoD ladies don't reach, was particularly noteworthy. It came as no surprise that my climax was long and powerful.

I departed saying that I'll be making another booking with her as soon as I am able.
