The Premises:

Basement flat in residential neighborhood. There were three flats in the basement, but it seems like the bedroom would not have shared any walls with either of the other two flats (they looked to be vacant, regardless). More than adequate bed and shower facilities worked well enough.

The Lady:

Both ladies have several reviews on here now, and I can add to the consensus that their pictures are representative of their actual selves, minus the standard photo-shopping/filters. Their selfie videos are accurate. Both were personable, enthusiastic, and seemed ready (and willing) to please. Both have incredible bodies. I personally was slightly more attracted to Tracy out of the two, and if I was to see them individually ever in the future, I would probably choose her for the first meeting. That's just my personal preference though; there was nothing wrong with Anna at all and another visit with her would be welcome as well.

The Story:

First, a short review of the agency. I found them incredibly easy to work with via SMS. Their website says "we may not be able to answer texts immediately so it may be better to call." I found this to not be the case at all; texts were answered within 10 minutes, and bookings confirmed not long after that. Information provided by them on pricing, locations, etc were all easy to understand/find.

Okay, so a couple of firsts for me on this booking. It was my first time with an Asian woman (of any ethnicity) and first threesome. I figured, what the hell, it probably will be the only way to experience one, so went for it. It certainly was an experience. I had plans in my head of how I was hoping things would go down and what I would ask for, etc, but things all just became a blur and what I had envisioned happening went right out the window. And that's not something to complain about, because these ladies know what they are doing. I can see why the Thai ladies are quite popular. They certainly have converted me. After this and my next review I will be writing, the level of service you seem to get from them is a bit more than what I got from others last time I ventured into this world.

Upon arrival, paperwork was sorted, and then a shared shower with Tracy. This is a nice introduction, as not only is everybody clean, but it is a nice tease to start things off with mutual hand-roaming. Moved on to the bedroom to commence round 1, which was followed by a massage, which was nice. The massage morphed into a B2B massage, with Anna starting it off with me on my back, and Tracy continuing after I flipped over. This progressed into Round 2, which was followed by another short massage prior to a clean-up shower and the end of the booking. All in all, a very nice experience.

Some other random thoughts about the experience:

- Both girls' "on-top" techniques were more of the grinding-type rather than the in and out type...which is good for their anatomy, but not necessarily ours. Since that is a preferred position of mine, that was just a bit "meh" for me. All other positions worked quite well though.
- While I know this seems to be the norm for duos like this, they were not interactive at all. Not one iota. Since I kind of expected this going into it, I wasn't disappointed really, but it would have been nice if there was at least a small amount. Even if they just played with each other's tits, that would have been cool.

Those are just minor gripes though. If you were thinking about having a similar experience, I think you would be more than happy getting these two in a room together.
