The Premises:

This visit took place when Salina worked in Bedford. She has subsequently relocated to Biggleswade.

Small, upstairs maisonette flat in established area of Bedford close to the park. On-street parking was challenging. Entrance via back fire escape style stairs. Inside, flat is recently refurbished and very small, the illusion of which was not helped by being over furnished. Tidy and looked after, but cramped.

No idea what here premisses are like now, but her prices have increased so hopefully more accommodating.

The Lady:

Salina is a mature lady. Her advertised, late fifties age is no doubt accurate, and she could probably get away with knocking a few years off as she looks a bit younger. Very attractive face with a nice hairstyle that helps belie her age. Salina is 5'5" tall, and size 14 / 16 figure. Curvy, but not fat, with a very large bust, which while she claims is all natural, isn't. The surgeons knife has been at work here, but the work has been done well. Physically, it's all good.

Only downside all things considered is the large taboo on her upper left arm, which clashes with the elegant persona she attempts to carry off and may or may not be to your taste.

The Story:

The good:

The best thing with Salina is how she looks. If you relish the mature, MILF type lady you will find a lot of physical attraction here. Services on offer, appear to fluctuate, depending on her mood, but those offered on the day were good. Knows how to give a good blow job, and is receptive to oral herself. Without being too anatomical, or graphic, a nice snug fit.

The bad:

Salina has been around the block, and talks in very negative terms about her profession and colleagues. She has a particular disdain for Eastern European girls, and hugely jealous of girls who may be considered more attractive, and younger. She talks of past days in ways that suggest she is not on a good place with her life, and how her best days are behind her. She had a negative vibe about her, and never made the appointment feel anything special. There was no sense of occasion about her. In many respects, the fading tattoo on her arm is an appropriate metaphor for Salina. The shine has gone off it, and has seen better days. This is all attitude, and I left wondering if Salina is in a good place mentally.

The ugly:

The disdain Salina holds for Eastern European girls makes them appear her best friends when she starts to talk about clients! Fuck me, I know punters are just that, but this girl makes no attempt to pretend otherwise. While the vast majority of girls can make the illusion look real, Salina cannot. She speaks of clients with user contempt and revulsion, and I did wonder if she should be doing something else at this stage. Clearly she has had some horrific experiences and I wouldn't wish that on anybody, and sympathise completely. But perhaps in the cold light of day, she's had one too many clients.

With a rethink, a change of attitude and a more positive outlook I think Salina could shine brighter than she may well have done in her heyday. But until then, I certainly won't be making another booking.
