The Premises:

A small 1 bed flat at the top of flats above shops, just round the corner from Mornington Crescent station. Looked very tatty and dark despite it being a bright day outside. Jessica does not live here, just works here.

The Lady:

Jessica was reasonably tall, very slim with long legs and pale skin. Small breasts, bony, and looked like her photos, I thought she looked all right, as expected really. I'm guessing she was a smoker. In her mid 20's I guess.

The Story:

I had texted earlier in the day to book the appointment and said I would see her at 5pm. I was on time, a bit early in fact, and texted her again when I was at the station. I got no reply until nearly 10 past, and she rang me to say that I didn't confirm so she had made another booking was available at 5.20pm after she had a shower, which I accepted (well, I wasn't going to go home I was desperate to see her!). She texted me to say when to come to the door and she came down to meet me and take me up the the top floor flat. We started chatting, talking about the coronavirus and she said how she didn't really believe it, same as me. I asked to take a shower, but (and this is the 1st time I've ever seen this) there was no cleaning products in the shower at all, No soap, no mouthwash, nothing! I washed with the water and came out. Jessica was already undressed and standing naked at the open window overlooking some other flats, and then she led me into the bedroom. I undressed and wanted to kiss but she said she didn't want to kiss because of the coronavirus (a complete u-turn!) so i was already feeling I'd been had. To be fair, other than that it was an ok session apart from my disappointment at the lack of kissing. Jessica was friendly enough and put a lot of effort into bumping and grinding. But it was very mechanical and I was glad to leave really. She's a nice enough girl but I wouldn't say I had anything like the experiences described on the website.
