The Premises:

Mia works from a large block of flats close to the city centre, easy to find and there's parking close by, though I used a taxi from the station, less than 10 minutes. A safe area and no-one is likely to have the slightest idea why you are there.

As it's quite a rabbit warren when you get inside, Mia will come down and meet you at a nearby car park. And don't worry, she won't be wearing black leather and carrying a whip. (Now there's a thought, lol!) she will either change when you get to her apartment or be wearing a long coat.

The apartment is small but clean and comfy (though you are probably not going there for your comfort!) and more than adequate for purpose.

Mia called me a taxi when we'd finished, a reliable local firm who arrived promptly.

The Lady:

Mia's own description of herself is very accurate, as are the photos on the AW website, all are definitely her. That's the lady you'll meet.

I would add that Mia has a very bubbly personality, is really fun to be with, she listens to your requirements and will tailor make your session according to your needs. She is very definitely not one of those sadistic dommes who will do whatever they feel like. But she will take firm charge and certainly hurt you, if that's what you want.

The Story:

I've always found that good communication is the key to getting the best out of a session with someone you're meeting for the first time and we exchanged several emails on AW so much of what we would do was agreed well before meeting, likes, dislikes, what was on and off limits etc. I was therefore feeling very confident that we would have a good session. And so it proved.

Things did not start well however as she was badly delayed by unusually heavy traffic but we kept in touch by text and, as it was a wet miserable day, she suggested I stay at the station, which I did with an overpriced Starbucks coffee and cookie, until she texted me to say it was OK to get the taxi.

As above, she met me outside but by then, we'd lost about half an hour of our scheduled playtime.

She immediately reduced the price to £130 and also was generous to give me the £5 I'd spent at Starbucks. She didn't have to do that and it was a greatly appreciated gesture. And one of the reasons why I'll be back in due course. Also, there was no clock watching, except for a bit by me as I had a train to catch, other than that the session was unrushed and fulfilling.

I rarely go into much detail about my sessions but everyone knows why you'd meet up with a skilled mistress, she satisfied my kinks and I think it fair to say we both really enjoyed each other's company. if you're a newbie, I feel sure Mia will put you at your ease and take you as far as you want to go, maybe a little further, and if you're experienced then I'm confident that you'll leave satisfied.

I'll definitely be back for more once the current Covid wave has subsided.
