The Premises:

Brooklynn's located on the main street going through Crewe. The main entrance is facing the road, some say it's like a taxi rank entrance with an open door, and there's a rear entrance via a set of metal stairs. It's about a 15min walk from the station, there's a sort of brewery tap room down the road that's quite nice to relax in and it's next to some kebab and burger shops. Inside, it's undergone a bit of a uplift: new sofas, new w/c or bathroom (the showers were uplifted a while ago) and the common lounge for coffee and tea is still there not private so everyone is waiting for everyone really. The secretary is very welcoming but, due to the timings, I have found if you are going in either lunch time to call ahead since it can get real busy real quickly but not too early since they don't open up properly until eleven thirty or so.

The Lady:

According to the website, Amber is a tight toned slender figure, dress size 10 with pert 34c breasts, a peachy bum and incredibly long shapely legs and, from the pictures, a redhead. So, looking at the website, they are pretty accurate. About 5'5, Amber is in her late twenties or early thirties and slim and spry. Northern lass but the conversation with her sounded a little stilted - a little bit tense and sometimes a little uninterested - but I think she had been out of one session and walked into mine. Definitely not into anal; in fact, she mentioned that her rear is kind of a sore point for her: no smacking, pinching or hurting the backside. (I think I stroked it once during our engagement and I remember an immediate hand to stop me going any further) Also, unlike the pictures, she had her hair up during the whole time which - unlike one redhead I know - is what most girls do.

The Story:

I thought it was going to be one of those sessions like with the other girls since Amber looked like there would be additions for everything but I opted for a GFE just because it would cover a lot of bases and it's less hassle than haggling mid session. Started with a massage and Amber did do a massage and not just rake their hands over. However, Amber - although she mentions she hadn't any skills - obviously did with massaging the crotch to get an erection and she started with the oral which was actually really good. I think there was another lady in Alicia's who had a similar technique and it was definitely worth it: a sort of teasing and then deep and then soft motion. I think I almost came when she came up for a quick snog and fumble with French kissing which was surprising erotic and I was massaging her crotch which was wet for me to finger. I think there was a moment where I touched her behind which made her abruptly froze but then she relaxed more and gushed after a while. Taking a moment, she asked if I wanted to have an OTC to finish off and I happily agreed as she continued her oral to finish me off. Redheads are always a thing for me so I am a little bit biased but Amber is worth visiting once; the roster at Brooklynn's is a bit of a change recently but Amber (at the time) I was kind of neutral to recommend when coming out of the room but it's a definite recommend at the moment.
