The Premises:

Ego Massage in Fenny Stratford, well established and well reviewed many many times already. Situated on a useful (and newly resurfaced) car park which, with an entrance which is more public than you'd like but it's alright. My bugbear with Ego is you're expected to have a shower before (which I understand) and one after (which is needed) but these are included in your appointment time, so your hour appointment is actually closer to 45 minutes on the table. Maybe inevitable, but something to be aware of if you're booking for the first time.

The Lady:

Would have booked Bianca if she were available as I found her photos to be more informative. Being a gentleman who prefers boobs of a size that would be considered a poor result in your school exams I like to see a front-facing photo, especially when there aren't many reviews. Bella doesn't quite have that photo but you can't go too wrong with 36DD so I took the plunge, and I'm glad I did. Pretty, sexy, nice boobs, talkative when you want it but not when you don't. She said it was her 14th shift that day so I don't know why she hasn't already had a review because from my experience she definitely should. Pierced nipples, too, if that's important to you.

The Story:

It'd been over 7 months since I'd been to Ego and decided to go for it on a visit to the area, despite the fact that gap had started to make it feel a bit weird again. I'm glad I did, Bella made it totally worth it. A good, decent massage very happily received, but that's not why they or we are there. After a bit of that the reach-unders and boobs started to be brought into it, with a good amount of ball play and further down toward the perineum which was very nice and something you don't get very often. She stood at the top of the table and positioned her boobs either side of my neck while massaging my lower back, and also made sure they were up there sometimes when doing the body to body and incorporating a bit of a head massage. I don't know why it's nice having boobs round your neck but it is, like some sort of delightful cushion. Come the turn over the massage continued, with a nice build up of quality cock handling and pretty high level ball play, more than you often get in the ball area. More body to body and tits to the face - I did ask but she said she was just about to head to the top of the table and do it anyway, and I'm sure she was because she seems to know all the small but important little touches that can take a pleasant experience to a really pleasurable

one. Would happily book again without reservation.
