The Story:

Last week I visited Yasmin at this place (see my FR). This week I thought I would see how Sasha compared. Bad Move!

Everything that happened was totally opposite from my visit to Yasmin. When Sasha walked into the room I got a bad feeling within the first couple of seconds. Instead of coming right up to me and making physical contact, she stayed well back, took the dosh and when she came back, told me to remove my kit instead of removing it as Yasmin did. I tried to help her undress but she said she would do it herself.

In the shower she would only get in after me. She kept at arms length and the body language suggested, as it had all along, that she would be happier if I kept my hands to myself, so I more or less did. Back in the bedroom she stayed safely out of reach at the bottom of the bed for a reasonably competent BJ. A sort of "Oh I suppose so" look appeared on her face when I suggested we did 69. She endured this for about one minute before moving clear and suggesting mish. I suggested doggy but she said she didn't like it this early in the morning, so mish it was then!

After a couple of minutes of mish I suggested laying on our sides for an approach from the rear. She said that she doesn't like that and would prefer doggy (which she had declined earlier). Whilst doing doggy I began to wonder why I was bothering so reverted to mish so as to bring this mechanical experience to an end.

I always manage to last the full time (with Yasmin, not easy), but with nothing much on the menu, and the act of banging away at a girl who seemed repulsed by the whole experience, being a tiring as opposed to an arousing experience, I allowed myself to struggle to a conclusion after 20 minutes, whereupon she opened the door and ushered me out with haste.

It was my intention to visit the two other weekday girls but I am now nervous of wasting another ?60 or ?120 in case they also are repulsed by the act of having sex with a stranger.

In fairness Sasha was happy and pleasant when not having to indulge in sexual activity but that did nothing to take my mind off of the fact that my wasted ?60 could have been spent on a repeat performance of the close, warm, sensual and erotic experience that I had with Yasmin. The words chalk and cheese come to mind.

I often see the phrase GFE used. I don't believe such a thing is entirely possible, but some girls try to make the most of it and as such, manage to get a little pleasure from a clean and thoughtful client. In Sasha's case I think VAM best describes the experience (Vaginally Assisted Masturbation)
