The Lady:

Her personal statistics as outlined on the site are accurate and although I do not quite fully agree with the Agency's description of her appearance she certainly has an engaging personality and makes for good and interesting conversation probably reflecting her primary professional background.

The Story:

Despite finding her something of a reluctant kisser, everything else was as one would wish for it to be and this was confirmed by my chosen hand finish being one of the best I have ever had, it was one of those that seemed to go on and on and on.

Perhaps it was somewhat ironic, with it being the weekend of the very cold weather and with Amber being coloured, that when she finally got up and saw herself in the mirror, she could have been forgiven for thinking she had just walked into a snowstorm!
