The Premises:

House in a side street of the main road. Semi or end of terrace, I didn't notice. Sara uses a cramped back room upstairs. The house possesses a pervasive smell, of what I could not determine. Possibly Cinnamon. I smelled of it on the way home.

The Lady:

Sara is short, 5'2ish, which is a good thing. She was just back from the Caribbean and brown as your hat. Great body, looks better than her pics.

The Story:

Sara offered me a drink to start. I said tea would be nice so she disappeared downstairs to make it. When she came back we both stood drinking. There was a telly on. After some rather curt instructions how to get there and a strained conversation at the start I got the distinct impression Sara doesn't suffer fools, which made me wonder what on earth she was doing this for!

Eventually she said we should start and asked what I would like to be massaged with. I said Talc, and she disappeared again, telling me to take off my clothes and lay on the bed. When Sara returned she proceeded to massage and I have to say it was rather good. Sara is trained in such, and I think it shows.

After that it was down to business and boy can this girl suck. I have been on a mission of oral completion having never had anyone manage it so far. Sara managed to do it with a mixture of sucking and wanking me for a long time. She kept changing hands and I one point I thought she may concede, but Sara is a real trooper and persevered. Mission Accomplished. I think my one next is to get to completion without any hands. Oh, and by the way, Sara's reverse cowgirl is fantastic. The girl can really ride.

Overall a great time, but I would just do something about the smell in the house. Go and find out out for yourself.
