The Premises:

Office unit on a trading estate, clean, safe, but not at all discrete.

The Lady:

Lisa early twenties, pretty, very slim and petite. Abby a little older, attractive, more busty.

The Story:

From the Soft Touch website they appear to offer naturist massage and HR only, starting from a very reasonable ?25 for half an hour. There are other combinations, two girl, longer times, jacuzzi etc all at equally reasonable prices. Once inside, they offer extras too, at fixed prices. Sometimes this "menu" based charging can end up being an excuse to rip you off, but in this case it works well. In the end I opted for a 2 girl massage with oral from one of the girls at the end.

The service was ok, the girls were friendly and attractive - not the best massage I ever had, but at ?65 for 2 girls and a blow job I am not complaining. The only odd thing for me was that they both had a real issue with taking their clothes off, they did everything they could to avoid or delay getting naked, and in fact Abby never did take her knickers off.

I will certainly go back, if you just feel like a massage and oral they are good value. If you opt for FPS style extras it cost ?60, but I doubt if you get kissing, owo etc. There are better places for FPS.

One thing though, this has to be the least discrete place ever. It is on a trading estate, and it shares a little office block with a tanning studio, a sandwich bar and a baked spud place where the local workers get their lunch. I think they are trying to appear like a legit massage and beauty place, but with a stream of men going in and out they aren't fooling anyone. The food places have a few tables outside, so anyone coming out of Soft Touch will most likely have to walk past a group of smirking workmen who know exactly where you have been.

It didn't bother me. I just had a blow job and all they got was a jacket potato, so I smirked back.
