The Premises:

Apartment in a large block near Regents Park tube. Looks posh on the outside, perfectly safe. The bonking room was large & OK, mirrored full length wardrobes. There was a bathroom beside it cluttered with underwear & toiletries.

The Lady:

I couldn't help myself, she was a little out of my price range but she looked soooo good! I wasn't disappointed by her looks, if you want to shag a russian model then go for it, BUT..!

The Story:

An hour with Holly could be a mind bending experience if she was a little more friendly. There is no GFE attempted, no kissing or much intimacy of any sort. I don't think she wants to be doing this and it shows. However I did manage to get her excited by DATY, which was sweet tasting. I'm sure she would have been up for a good shag but alas I didn't perform to my best and it was over too soon.

After tidying up Holly attempted to excite me with a blow job but alas it wasn't to be. My fault not hers. But well before time she began to signal that time was up. I would have liked a massage but it wasn't on offer. So I just lay on the bed, like a beached whale until she realised I wasn't going to go and then we had a nice chat.

I told her that she should give up the day job and become a model. But she thinks that she is too old (she looks 22 but is not). She's a nice person I think.

As I left - a few minutes before my hour was up - we kissed goodbye, so our encounter ended OK. I also realised that there was another girl in the flat. She obviously wanted the bonking room for her own appointment and he was waiting.

So to conclude. Holly is fantastic looking with a wonderful body. But with me there was no chemistry until the chat at the end. Perhaps my negative comments are soured by my poor performance. I have the feeling that if you press the right buttons & operate the right levers that she would get more involved. But one day I hope to open a glossy fashion magazine (as I'm waiting in the dentist, of course) and see her smiling face looking back at me.
