The Premises:

A nice new development visible from the DLR. Inside a nice wooden floored massage room and shower facilities.

The Lady:

Late twenties, blonde, busty and healthy looking body with a dark honey glow to it. Irish in origin She says girl next door and she might be right. I liked it anyway.

The Story:

She is a tantric masseuse, so the service is not sex. But she is incredibly good at what she does, oiling her body and running herself all over you, grinding her crotch against your back and showing herself off in the mirror. It's a full hour of sensuality and arousal rather than a furtive hand job at the end of a "will she won't she" legitimate massage and I have to say that it's infinitely preferable. Looked great, lets you run your hands over her body, and works you up very well indeed. I was impressed.

I have to say that I deleted all my old field reports as the girls had moved on, but I was impressed by this one to the extent that I wanted to put the business her way because what she does is so good. Check her out.
